Steelworkers, mill reach agreement

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Negotiators for the steelworkers union and National Steel Corp. of Pittsburgh agreed to a tentative contract May 25.

The proposal, wage and benefit concessions made in the last two United Steelworkers of America contracts at Granite City Steel will be restored and raises will be given in coming years.

The contract will be retroactive to June 1, 1989, and extend till July 31, 1993. It affects 7,300 hourly workers at three National Steel plants: 1,900 workers here and the rest at National's plants near Detroit and in Portage, Ind., near Chicago.

"This agreement looks both forward and backward," Steelworkers District Director Buddy Davis said.

"It recognizes that our members have not had a wage increase since 1982 and that they have made significant sacrifices to help the company return to profitability, and it addresses that question."

"It also recognizes the need to train workers in skills they will need to stay abreast of change and remain competitive."

The International Executive Board of the union meets today to consider the proposed contract, said Davis, District 34 director, who was chairman of the union's negotiating committee.

Davis said the chances were "excellent" of the board's approving the contract and sending

Proposed contract details

The following are among the provisions of a proposed new contract between National Steel Corp. and the United Steelworkers of America:

- A $500 signing bonus and a $500 advance on 1989 profit sharing. The latter normally would not be paid until the spring of 1990.
- Increases in future pensions.
- Periodic cash payments to surviving spouses.
- Improved health insurance for both active and retired workers.
- A trade and craft training program and a new education plan called the USWA/National Career Development Program.
- Penalties for excessive overtime. When employees are required to work more than 56 hours a week, the company will pay a penalty that will go to the Career Development Program.
- Inflation protection: The Inflation Recognition Payment will go into effect when inflation exceeds 3 percent.

ing it on to the union membership for approval.

He said he would recommend that the board approve it. If the board does approve it, ballots will be mailed out on June 7.

Informational meetings will be held at 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. that day at Engelbert Hall, 10th Street and Washington Avenue in Madison.

The economic terms of the contract are comparable to those of a contract ratified recently by Bethlehem Steel steelworkers.

The agreement restores wage concessions made in 1986, and it increases wages an average of $1 an hour in 1991 and 50 cents an hour in 1992.

The Bethlehem contract was approved by a 79-percent majority of voting members.

Davis said the negotiating committee had recommended the agreement be ratified. He said this meant the agreement probably would be approved by the rank and file.

A simple majority of those who cast ballots is required for ratification.

"They're a good barometer," he said. "It was the best agreement we could get under the conditions — certainly better than the last two (contracts)."

Davis said no other steel company is guaranteeing a minimum of 40 hours a week as provided for in the agreement.

The contract covers all five locals at the mill here, he said.

The contract between the mill and 800 members of the Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Union expires in October.

One hundred bricklayers and hod carriers have a contract that expires late this year.

2 burned in Venice fire

By Valerie Evenden

VENICE — A man and his 3-year-old stepson suffered burns at 5:20 p.m. Saturday in a fire that extensively damaged two apartment houses in the 1000 block of Logan Avenue.

Injured were Harvey Willis, 39, of 1013 Logan and his son, Antonio Jackson. Both suffered multiple burns and were admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Both were listed in stable condition Wednesday afternoon.

"I can't really tell you much about it," Willis said Wednesday. "My son was asleep upstairs and I was watching TV. I smelled smoke and then I started hearing things popping."

"Things just kept popping and I went down to look and the whole thing was on fire."

"I ran next door and called the fire department. Then I went back in to get my son. That's when we got all messed up, coming back through the fire."

Willis, a crossing guard at Venice Grade School, said he drove himself and his son to the hospital.

"It wasn't me I was thinking about; it was my little boy. I just got in the car and came on in."

remained at the scene from 5:21 p.m. Saturday until 12:17 a.m. Sunday.

They returned to the fire scene at 10:35 a.m. Sunday when the mattress rekindled at 1017 Logan Ave.

The Madison County Arson Team was asked to investigate the fire, police said.

Cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, according to Venice authorities.

The fire apparently spread from the two-story frame house at 1013 Logan to 1017 Logan and also melted siding on a third house, onlookers said.

Occupants of apartments at 1013 Logan included Viola Clements, Rose Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Brown.

Persons residing at 1017 Logan were listed as the Bell family and Donita Haynes.

Henry Baucum owns the properties at 1013 and 1017 Logan, officials said.

Each of the two apartment houses was valued at $35,000, and the contents of each were worth $12,000.

The estimated loss in buildings and contents was not immediately determined.

Bowler sentencing postponed

GRANITE CITY — Paul Ray Bowler, District 9 school board vice president, will not be sentenced until Oct. 5, he said yesterday.

Bowler, originally scheduled to be sentenced May 26, pleaded guilty Feb. 16 to one count of making a false statement to a financial institution.

He was originally charged with four counts in a federal indictment; the rest were dropped.

Following the plea, Bowler's post on the school board was challenged.

On March 1, Associate Judge Jonathan Isbell ruled Bowler's plea was not a conviction within the definition of Illinois law as stated in People vs. Lisinski, a 1976 2nd District appellate case that concluded conviction occurs upon sentencing.

Last week, Bowler said, he was informed that sentencing had been postponed at the request of the U.S. attorney. "You know as much as I do," Bowler said.

The case against Bowler involved his purchase in 1984 of properties in the 3900 and 4000 blocks of Oakmont Drive in Pontoon Beach. Based on the same purchase, Gage Flood, owner of Flood Realty Centre, was indicted by a federal grand jury April 20. She has proclaimed innocence in that case.

Local employment up

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The April unemployment rates in Granite City and Madison County are among the lowest in years, according to the Illinois Department of Employment Security.

The April rate in Granite City was 8.4 percent of a labor force of 16,800, down from 9.4 percent in March. The rate in April 1988 was 10 percent. Almost 200 persons found jobs in April.

The April jobless rate in Madison County was 6.5 percent of a labor force of 123,000, down from 7.3 percent in March. About 1,100 persons found jobs in April. The rate in April 1988 was 7.6 percent.

The April figures are the most recent, according to Velda Gerstenecker, a statistical research supervisor for the department. She said most of the gains were in construction, retail and wholesale trade, and services and manufacturing.

Gerstenecker said employment was up in the metals industry, both manufacturing and fabricating.

She said the gains in the services sector were primarily in the area of outdoor recreational activities such as golf courses

Shocking electric bills due

GRANITE CITY — About 30,000 area Illinois Power Co. customers may get a shock when they get June electric bills.

The bills could be at least $30 more than May bills because of higher summer rates, a company spokesman said.

Several factors will combine to make the first electric bills of the summer vacation period surprisingly large, according to both the company and a consumer group.

A spokesman for the consumer group said the June electric bill could be twice the

Students learn lesson using sign language

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A brief presentation in sign language recently gave students at Granite City High School a chance to show what they've learned during the past nine weeks.

But there was more to the class than mastering the intricate hand movements that make up the silent language of the deaf.

The real lesson taught by the sign language class became evident only after the presentation, when hearing students mingled with deaf students and "spoke" with their fingers.

"These are regular kids and they went to it (sign language) like a duck takes to water," said Elizabeth Hall, interpreter for the deaf.

During a presentation last week, eight students recited the Pledge of Allegiance, sang "The Rose," and acted out the story of "The Little Red Hen."

Students performing were Jami Wickel, Jeanette Morris, Kathy Engelke, Matt Pascoe, Nicole Schneider, Caryn Miller, Christine Bonds and Dani McDowell.

"Right now they're still at the beginner's stage and we tried to make them aware of the world of the deaf," Hall said.

Hall said that one day the class members wore ear plugs but the experiment worked almost too well.

"They couldn't understand anything I was saying and it was really confusing," Hall said.

"But they got the point."

The sign language class is offered here, the first having been last year.

"We want to offer the class every semester to promote communication among the deaf and hearing students," Evelyn Wright, teacher for the hearing impaired, said.

Hall said that, eventually, maybe as soon as next year, an advanced sign language class will be offered.

"Right now, though, it looks like it will just be the beginner's class again," Hall said.

But should the advanced class be offered, there is already an interest in it.

"I think it's a great idea," Dani McDowell, a sophomore, said. "I've met a couple of people and made some new friends," she said.

Regardless of what students thought of their own performance, teachers were impressed.

"I've been doing this for a long time and they really put me to shame," Laura Froemling, teacher for the deaf, said. Froemling said the class is a "wonderful idea" since there are anywhere from five to 10 deaf students at the high school in a given semester.

"It will not only promote communication here at school but elsewhere," Froemling said. "Most deaf people are cut off from talking to so many people that they get the biggest thrill when they see someone signing."

"They are usually real patient and so pleased you made the effort," Froemling said.

Both Froemling and Hall agree that the class is a small step in the right direction to end prejudice against the deaf.

"People are becoming more accepting and more understanding; I think these kids have shown that," Hall said. "Unfortunately, lack of communication is still a problem — now we just need to bridge that gap."

Charles B. Dale, 67, of the 3000 block of Myrtle Avenue was arrested May 25 in Madison County on a Granite City warrant, alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol. Dale posted bail and was released, pending a court appearance.

Dale was assistant manager for security at the nightclub in Collinsville.

"He got a fair trial. The system worked," Martin said.

Key evidence was discovered several weeks ago during a deposition taken in a civil case filed by Roberts' widow, Martin said. Pathologist Dr. Travis Hindman said then and later testified that holes found in Roberts' skull were probably caused by bullets with a mid-range call-iber like a .38. Prosecutors had tried to show a 22 caliber gun was used.

Roberts' body was found Sept. 4 on a dike in the Mississippi River a few miles from DeLuca's farm.

Closing arguments in the case were presented Wednesday afternoon by Madison County Assistant State's Attorney Robert Trone and Martin. The trial had begun the previous Wednesday, May 17.

Presiding over the trial, held in Edwardsville, was Circuit Judge Charles Roman.

DeLuca took the stand Tuesday in his own defense, testifying for 2½ hours. "I haven't done any of the things I've been charged with," he said.

DeLuca said he pushed Roberts into a door on the second floor of the nightclub, causing Roberts to fall. DeLuca said he left the club shortly after that occurred, about 6:30 to 6:45 a.m.

DeLuca's testimony contradicted statements made earlier by night watchman Jack Williams of rural Collinsville. Williams had said he was present when DeLuca shot Roberts in the head.

DeLuca acknowledged that he and Roberts had been drinking heavily in the nearby employees' lounge, DeLuca said he had a confrontation with Roberts in the lounge.

"He started yelling at me, asking me if I wanted some of him," DeLuca said. "I told him he would be too easy."

Assistant manager Bob Smith was present.

"I asked him (Roberts), 'Do you want me to knock you out?'" DeLuca said. "I looked at Bob Smith and told him I was going to knock Doug out."

DeLuca said he swung at Roberts, who fell against a wall. DeLuca said he helped Roberts to his chair.

"When Doug started on me again, Bob said, 'I'm getting out of here. I don't want anything to do with this,'" DeLuca said.

Smith had testified he went downstairs to get Williams to break up the fight.

DeLuca said he and Roberts also left the lounge. "He kept telling me I would be the one that would be too easy and I wasn't so tough," DeLuca said.

"Doug turned and screamed at me and yelled, 'Do it!'" DeLuca said. "He grabbed my shirt and me. I pushed back against Doug. He stumbled, hit the door and fell to the floor."

DeLuca said he and Williams went downstairs and he asked Williams to get some ice for Roberts.

DeLuca said he then assured Smith, who was on the first floor, that Roberts would be OK.

DeLuca said Smith left the building. DeLuca said he went to the restroom, then left the building and drove home.

Commission seeks nominees for volunteers who helped justice

The Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (SILEC) is convinced that many people in its region contribute voluntarily to the upgrading or enhancement of law and justice in the seven SILEC counties of Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington.

The SILEC board of directors in November 1988 called for these public-spirited role models to be identified and nominated for annual recognition.

Individuals nominated can be civic minded citizens, victim and child advocates, private practitioners, law enforcement professionals or law enforcement practitioners. Nominations are to be submitted by July 10.

A committee of SILEC directors, chaired by Frank Thompson of the Bond County Board, will review proposed candidates by July 15 and honor those selected at the SILEC board's November meeting. Other members of this committee are: Chief Richard Odem, Cahokia Police.

Norm Rieso, member, St. Clair County Board, Capt. Bobby Henry, commander, Illinois State Police Districts 11.

And Lester Campbell, SILEC president and chairman of the Washington County Board.

Examples of those who can be nominated are:

• Court-appointed special advocate (CASA) volunteers.

• Domestic violence volunteers.

• Medical personnel who on their own time work on child-abuse prevention.

• Officers involved on their own time in drug abuse prevention and alcohol abuse prevention programs.

The volunteers must have been effective in enhancing/upgrading the administration of justice or law and justice.

They can be nominated by any person or entity.

Nominations are open now for INVOLVE recognition (Involved Volunteers Who Offer Law Enforcement Valuable Enhancement).

Nominations must be in writing and forwarded to the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, Second Floor, St. Clair County Jail Building, Fifth and West F Streets, Belleville 62221.

Chosen candidates will be notified in writing by Sept. 30, said J.W. "Skip" Bennett, executive director, 277-1550.

Jury: DeLuca is not guilty

By Ed Gurney

EDWARDSVILLE — Dennis DeLuca was found innocent last week on charges of murdering a Panama City bartender and setting fire to the Collinsville nightclub to conceal evidence.

A seven-member, five-man jury deliberated less than an hour and a half before reaching the verdict.

DeLuca, 40, of rural Hamburg, had been indicted in April 1988 on charges of murder, armed violence, arson and concealment of a homicidal death.

"They tried to put a size 12 shoe in a size 6 shoe box," defense attorney James Martin of St. Louis said. "They decided Dennis did it even before they had a body."

Police claimed DeLuca shot Douglas Roberts, 35, of Berkeley, Mo., following a drunken argument at the nightclub on March 25, 1988. DeLuca was accused of attempting to set fire to the nightclub later that day.

DeLuca was assistant manager for security at the nightclub in Collinsville.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center to hold Baby-sitting Clinic

Many adolescents baby-sit during their summer vacations to earn extra money.

Unfortunately, these individuals are not usually trained to ensure the safety of their charges.

To aid in this endeavor, St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City is offering a Baby-sitting Clinic to these 12 years of age and older on Saturday, June 3, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., in the Going Strong Wellness Center, 22nd and Iowa Streets. The clinic will be taught by registered nurses and by SEMC's director of safety.

Topics will include selecting a baby-sitting job, job responsibilities, child care and safety, entertaining the child, first-aid, poison control, fire safety and answering the telephone.

The cost is $5 per person. Certificates will be awarded upon completion of the clinic.

Enrollment is limited and pre-registration is required. For more information or to register, call Nursing Administration at 798-3142.

Francine needs foster care

GRANITE CITY — Francine is a beautiful girl. Although she is usually cheerful, she is now deeply depressed. Francine is 15 years old and pregnant. The thrill of acting grown up is gone. She is now faced with the reality of having a baby and the sobering responsibility of caring for a child. Her parents are divorced. Her father disappeared years ago.

The teen has always looked for someone to give her attention and love. Finally, she turned to boys who admitted her beauty. She enjoyed being the center of their attention. Then she became pregnant.

Although Francine has done well in school, she has often been truant as she searches for excitement. She enjoys roller skating and singing and has a good voice. Francine makes friends easily and is in good health.

The teen is now willing to accept authority. At the present time, she is getting advice and help from an agency that deals with unwed mothers.

Francine needs to become a part of a foster family which will care for her and her baby, says Jeannette Rettle. Francine especially needs foster parents who will give her hope and love during this difficult time in her young life.

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services provides a monthly board payment to help foster parents meet the expenses of caring for a youngster. Medical, dental and other special expenses are also paid by the state.

Those interested in helping a teen like Francine, or in foster care in general, may contact Jeannette Rettle at 876-8885 or call a toll-free number at 1-800-624 KIDS.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people who are persuaded to purchase merchandise by door-to-door salesmen have second thoughts. They may find that the merchandise can be purchased elsewhere for less or that the quality of the item is not as promised. In such situations, the buyer may be able to cancel the purchase and obtain a refund of any money paid to the seller.

In Illinois, a buyer may choose to proceed under the Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act. This law allows buyers to cancel a transaction in certain cases where the sale of merchandise involves $25 or more and the seller has called on the consumer. Under such circumstances, the buyer may cancel the sale within three full business days following the day of the sale by giving written notice and returning the merchandise to the seller. The seller then has the legal duty to refund all payment within ten business days.

This law does not apply to sales where buyers initiate contact with the seller and request the delivery of goods to meet an immediate personal emergency of the consumer. The buyer also cannot cancel a transaction conducted entirely by mail or telephone. Another popular misconception is that a person who buys goods at a department store may cancel the sale within three days. The purchase of merchandise at a department store does not fall within the three-day "cooling-off" provision.

Each sale must be accompanied by a "Notice of Cancellation," which merely must be dated, signed by the buyer and sent to the seller prior to midnight of the third business day after the date of the sale. In a recent case, the Court decided what the term "business day" meant. In that case, the contract between the buyer and the seller stated that the cancellation period expired on a Monday, although the contract was only signed on a preceding Thursday. The Court held that Saturday could be considered to be a business day. Therefore, the buyer could not cancel the sale after Monday.

Sometimes a buyer may correctly give notice of cancellation within three business days, but the seller will fail to refund the buyer's money. In these situations, the buyer may be forced to sue the seller. It should be noted that the buyer may not recover his money, but also may be awarded court costs and attorney's fees in such cases.

Colossians 3:11 "... but Christ is all..."

There can never be any doubt in our minds that Christ is all. He is the Son of God. He was sacrificed for the sins of the world. He was obedient to the will of the Father. He has this testimony. He pleased God.

Now we must hold Christ in the same esteem as God did. He is sufficient for us. He is all we need. He is the way, the truth, and the life.

As St. Augustine said, "Christ is not valued at all unless He be valued above all."

Let Him be your all. Today.

HEIDI KOENIG, center, is welcomed as a new DAR member by her grandmother, left, Audrey Sperry, and her mother, Linda Koenig, the regent of Drusilla Andrews Chapter. The women represent three generations of membership for the chapter. Heidi's sister, Jill, also a junior member, was not available for the picture.

Darla Mayhall
talent queen

Local girl chosen top county teen

Darla Mayhall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Mayhall of Granite City, won the title of Miss Teen Madison County at a contest held May 20 in Wood River. She also won first place in the talent division, which earned her the title Miss Madison County Teen Talent Queen.

At a contest held earlier in Granite City, she won the title "Overall Miss Sweetheart of the Midwest." She won first place in the pageant, talent and photographic; high point in her age group; and overall winner of the contest.

Mayhall is a freshman at Granite City High School where she is a member of the Pom-Pom Squad, Student Council and Junior Varsity softball team. She also teaches baton at the Granite City YMCA.

She is instructed by Rhonda Vest and sponsored by Wood-rome Oldsmobile.

DAR welcomes a third generation

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the DAR held its May meeting at the home of Jane Vanesler and welcomed the third generation of one family to its membership.

Regent Linda Koenig opened with the group reciting the Pledge of Allegiance and the Preamble to the Constitution.

Emma Schoen, registrar, announced that 16-year-old Heidi Koenig's membership application had been accepted by the NSDAR board in April. The regent, who is her mother, and Vanesler conducted a brief welcoming installation service.

With the addition of Heidi Koenig the Drusilla Andrews Chapter now has three generations of one family represented in the membership of Drusilla Andrews Chapter. Audrey Sperry, who became a member in February of this year, is the mother of the regent, Linda Koenig, and the grandmother of Jill and Heidi Koenig, who are both junior members.

New officers for the next two

... who is a scholarship winner

Heidi Koenig, a senior at Granite City High School, has been awarded the Barnes Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship for the 1989-90 school year based upon academic achievement and ACT scores.

She was elected in April, took office during this meeting.

In other activity, Audrey Sperry read the president general's message and Marie Reinhardt presented a National Defense topic on the possible goals of Gorbachev since the Russians are no longer involved in Afghanistan.

Barbara Williams presented a program on the resolutions passed during State and National Conferences this spring. One state resolution regarding the abuse of the American flag by displaying it flat on the floor has been successfully satisfied since she will be entering Barnes Hospital School of Nursing and is the granddaughter of Olga Koenig and the late Victor Koenig and of Audrey Sperry and the late Ovid Sperry.

The Illinois Legislature passed a law with penalties this session against displaying the flag in such a position.

One national resolution dealt with immigration and called for the U.S. Government to increase the number of teams patrolling areas in the southwestern states where Mexico and the U.S. have adjoining boundaries. Presently no more than 600 teams at one time are patrolling 2,000 miles of border.

Another national resolution called for chapter members to alert themselves, regardless of age, and indicate their feeling to their congressmen about the coverage and financing of the 1988 Catastrophic Insurance Bill.

A national resolution regarding the upcoming 1990 census reveals that it is possible that the number of illegal aliens in the U.S. will be "estimated," rather than "counted," as required by law. An estimated number in areas widely populated by illegal aliens could change the number of representatives to congress from some states.

Another resolution on voting presented gerrymandering as a possible end-result if "walk-in" registration at the polls is allowed, with only a driver's license needed for identification.

The Division VI spring meeting will be held on June 16 in Altamont and several chapter members plan to attend.

Additional members present were Margaret Belt, Judy Schatz, Florence Simpson, Alvin Thurai, Mae McCormick, Sandra Wilkinson, Mildred McCormick, Louise Webb, and Ethel Beeler.

Parish picnic at St. Elizabeth's June 9-11

The Ladies Sodality of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church plans its parish picnic June 9-11.

Various foods will be served throughout the three-day event, opening Friday, and there will be carnival rides, game booths and live entertainment with dancing each night.

President Mary Lou Lyerla presided at the May 23 Sodality meeting, in which the picnic was discussed. The session was held in the Quilter's Room at the church; 38 members attended.

The meeting opened with a prayer by Sheila Potter. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary Mary Evelyn Yench, and financial report was given by Treasurer Grace Parker. The president reported on the progress of ongoing philanthropic ic projects. Members were reminded of the Ladies Appreciation Dinner Saturday evening, June 3, in the school cafeteria.

Marsha Chomko, director of religious education, announced that the Summer Regionals 1989 sponsored by the Office for Catholic Education will be held Monday, Aug. 21 at the Holiday Inn in Alton; the program is titled, "Faith: What Makes an Adult Christian Tick?"

The Quilt-of-the-Month winner was Mary Tapp; Pot-of-Gold winner was Frances Friedel; and Kathie Hitt won the Madonna. Class attendance was won by the Werth's and Stimac classes and attendance prizes were awarded to Lyerla.

The meeting closed with a prayer titled, "Look Around," led by Chomko with each person in turn reading a passage. Following the meeting, refreshments were served by mothers of fourth-grade students.

The program for the evening consisted of a demonstration by Diane Davis and JoAnn Spohr from Cabin Craft with members participating in making crafts.

Those in attendance were: the honoree's sister, Elizabeth; grandparents, Lorene Klobe and Mr. and Mrs. Larry (MaryAnn) Branz; great-grandmother, Mary Sardigal; Russ and Karen Baum and daughters, Bari and Kasey; Bob and Kathy Weber and daughters, Lauren, Mary Ellen and Adrienne; Paul Mushill; Craig and Kim Stevens; Rick Klobe and sons, Kyle and Erik; Mike Klobe; Joe Sardigal; Bob and Kathy Ray and daughters, Denise and Jamie; Chris Wehrardt; Diane Vivod and children, Chrissy, Michael and Katie; and the honoree's parents.

BALLOON LAUNCH: Children at Mitchell Elementary School watch as their balloons fly off into the sky. The launch was coordinated by Terry Lignoul's Idea Lab students who prepared all of the balloons and scheduled the launch. Notes inside the balloons ask the finder to contact the school so that the distance traveled can be recorded. Several grade levels also used the launch as an "Invent America" activity which was coordinated by Brenda Voyles, fourth-grade teacher. The "IA" balloons were distinguishable by red, white and blue streamers which had been attached.

NCA accredits Marquette

Marquette Catholic High School in Alton recently completed the self-study and visiting team evaluation done every seven years in accordance with the North Central Association of Colleges & Secondary Schools.

Based on the team's report, Marquette, a charter member of the NCA, will again be accredited by the commission.

The visiting team, chaired by Dr. Fred Bloss, director of curriculum and instruction for the Collinsville school district, worked closely with John Rogers, Marquette principal, and Mike Slaughter, chairman of the steering committee, for the school's self-study.

The team concluded that Marquette was providing excellent educational, extracurricular, athletic, and religious opportunities for its students. Team members added that everyone associated with the school has reason to be proud of its achievements and accomplishments.

The school was commended for the dedication and commitment of the Ursulines; the rapport established between teachers and students; the establishment of a long range planning committee; the dedication and financial support of parents and alumni; and the overall warm and cordial spirit of the student body.

The recommendations presented by the team tended to be much more specific in nature, relating to a subject area or role/responsibility at the school.

At the same time as the North Central Association evaluation, the Illinois State Board of Education conducted their visit with many of the same commendations and suggestions. Marquette was recommended for full recognition status exceeding state requirements.

ACCEPTING HONORS from Wilbert Glasper, Venice school board president, pictured at right, is Linda Cottrell. Cottrell is retiring from the district after 35 years of service.

Cottrell ends 35-year career

Linda (Peaster) Cottrell found out just how much she will be missed next year during a retirement party held in her honor May 12.

Mrs. Cottrell has worked in Venice School District 3 for the last 35 years.

She began her local career as a teacher at Lovejoy School and went on to teach at Lincoln High School where she later served as assistant principal.

She began teaching in Venice schools in 1967 and also worked as a human relations specialist for three years (1970-1981) before teaching sixth grade.

Fellow members and colleagues from both the past and present were on hand to give individual tributes. Speakers included Robert N. Vickers, former District 3 superintendent; Althea Cross, retired Venice teacher; Col. Trevaunt Foster, Mrs. Cottrell's brother; and Wilbert Glasper, school board president.

Guests were welcomed by Superintendent Charles McCaskill and an invocation was given by the Rev. Norman E. Owens of the Macedonia Baptist Church. Sina Reeves served as the master of ceremonies.

Dan Abert chairs vocational group

The Advisory Committee for The Madison County Regional Vocational System has elected officers and discussed plans to highlight occupations for which skills can be obtained through Vocational Education beginning in high school.

Dan Abert of Twin Telecom in Maryville was elected chairman and William Crabb, director of Food Service at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, vice chairman.

The committee will meet again June 27.

Musical selections were offered by Willetta Atkinson, soloist, accompanied at the piano by Marian B. Morgan. Both are close friends of Mrs. Cottrell.

It was noted that retirement won't end her experiences with young people.

She plans to organize her home and do some traveling with her husband, Albert, but she also plans to continue her work with children.

Mrs. Cottrell serves on the board of directors of the St. Engelbert Shrine Center in St. Louis.

"I'm still not going to give it up," she said. "I probably won't until the day I die."

One thing she said she will miss is the Junior Beta Club. She has been the organization's faculty sponsor for six years. Annette Kirkpatrick will take over that role.

"I feel good about it," Cottrell said of her retirement. "But it's very difficult to work in any system for this amount of time and not have some mixed feelings."

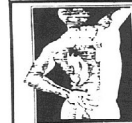

"The time just comes for you to step aside and let some young people in to do the job."

GRADUATES: Melissa Ann Stinson of Granite City recently received a bachelor of music degree in music education from Southwest Baptist University, Bolivar, Mo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Stinson.

GRADUATES: Debra Lynn Polach, a recent graduate of the Saint Louis University School of Nursing, has accepted a position as a thoracic nurse in the intensive care unit of Barnes Hospital, St. Louis. She is the daughter of Charles and Jan Polach of Granite City.

Many condo developments offer swimming pools, marinas, and tennis courts. Now a project in Norwich, Connecticut, has added a new wrinkle: a day-care center for children of residents.

Brass hardware, lamps, tables — anything made of solid brass — can be repolished, but brass when "brass finish" gets dull it has to be replated. Test with a magnet; it won't hold to real brass.

Designers find that dark, shiny walls can actually make a room look larger, because the walls seem to disappear. Paint the ceiling, too.

A lawn tractor has a tougher job than a car. It rides on rough terrain and kicks up dust and grass cuttings when it turns. To protect it, clean the chaff screen often, inspect the engine's cooling fins and replace the air filter frequently.

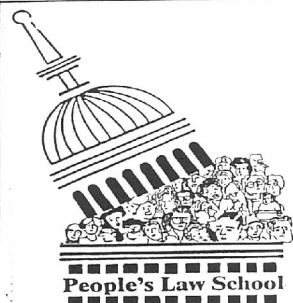

Dollars and cents talk, though central air conditioning is usually most efficient, window units cost less to use because they can be shut off in empty rooms.

Rescued baby serves as safety reminder

The recent TV movie "Everybody's Baby - The Rescue of Jessica McClure" should serve as an important reminder for everyone to seal abandoned wells as a safety measure, according to the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

The McClure infant fell down an abandoned well in Texas and was the subject of a two-day rescue. Illinois has an estimated 50,000 to 80,000 abandoned wells that pose a danger to children, adults and animals, as well as to the groundwater quality. By state law, it is the responsibility of property owners to do this or risk punishment by a fine of up to $100 a day.

May bill because of higher electricity usage in the summer. A typical household customer who uses about 1,000 kilowatt hours a month during the summer will see a $30 monthly increase sometime after June 15, assuming the same electric use as last summer, said Frank Beaman, supervisor of media relations for Illinois Power.

Early periods of intense heat already have caused extensive use of air conditioners at many homes.

"This could be one of the highest bills you'll see this year," said Tim Earley, a spokesman for the Illinois Public Action Council's Edwardsville office.

Memorial service offered Sunday

Bob Thomas, president of Thomas Mortuaries, said the annual spring memorial service will be conducted on Sunday, June 4.

The services will honor the memory of deceased loved ones, he said, with candlelight memorial services for families served by the Mercer, Thomas and Lahey-Sedlak funeral homes.

The combined service for the Mercer and Thomas Memorial Mortuary families will be conducted by the Rev. Mark Hunsch and Father Don Wolford at 1 p.m. at Thomas Memorial Mortuary 2205 Pontoon Road.

A memorial service for the Lahey-Sedlak families will be conducted at 2 p.m. by the Rev. Jeffrey Davis and Father James Keefe.

Those who plan to attend either service are asked to call Thomas Mortuaries at 876-4321 so that preparations can be completed for the social hour following each service.

on the company's rate proposal may register at the door. Written and oral comments will be accepted.

Illinois Bell has proposed a rate restructuring plan that would result in rates being increased by about $50 million.

Last July, the utility filed tariffs reflecting a temporary reduction in rates of about $85 million pending an analysis of the company's revenues.

The reduction, which appeared as a credit on customer bills, was due primarily to lower federal income taxes and depreciation.

Illinois Bell, however, requested that the commission reduce rates by only $35 million.

A commission decision on the Illinois Bell proposal is expected by late 1989.

Public hearings have been held previously in Decatur, Champaign, Chicago and Moline.

He admitted this is one of the few times he and IP have agreed on anything. "It's (higher cost) going to happen," said Earley.

The company blames a big difference between summer and winter rates, set by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

"Customers are getting whacked for using electricity," Beaman said.

The summer rate is 9.17 cents per kilowatt hour, compared to 5.9 cents in the winter.

For Illinois Power customers, the rate of 9.17 cents per kilowatt hour will seem even higher because last year's summer rate was lower, 7.95 cents per kilowatt hour, said Terry Kohler.

and park districts. In January 1985 the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics changed the way it studied unemployment data. Gerstenecker said.

The figures show analyzed according to how many workers live in a municipality or county, rather than according to how many jobs are situated in them.

Gerstenecker said the rate in February in Granite City — 8.1 percent — is the lowest since the government changed its way of analyzing data.

She said the April rate in Madison County was the second lowest; the lowest was in September 1988 (6.3 percent).

She said the statistics were not seasonally adjusted and the unemployment rate was likely to increase during the summer months as students joined the work force. It would then likely fall again in September as most of the students return to school.

Edwardsville. Davis Funeral Home, Granite City, was in charge of the arrangements.

MIZE, Clyde Sr., 64, of Granite City died at 4:39 p.m. Monday, May 29, 1989, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. today (Thursday) at Thomas Memorial Mortuary, Granite City. Burial was in Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

MORRIS, The Rev. Avery O. Morris, 68, of Granite City was pronounced dead at 9:10 a.m. Sunday, May 28, 1989, at his home.

IP's Wood River district manager

Last summer the company subtracted a $23 million rebate, ordered by the Illinois Commerce Commission, because of the company's unanticipated 1987 revenue.

This year the rebate is gone, Beaman said.

Typical summer bills this year should be $113 a month, compared with about $103 a month last summer, said Beaman.

The typical summer bill in 1987 also was $113, said Earley. The 1987 summer bills reflected the impact of a rate increase that hiked per-kilowatt-hour charges from 7 cents to 9.45 cents.

The average monthly summer bill of $113 in 1987 was based on 1,100 kilowatt hours of electricity and included a $10 monthly residential customer charge, Beaman said.

The $10 monthly residential charge also goes up, to $12, this year, Earley said.

In 1987, IP bills touched off a huge consumer reaction, and Earley predicts the same this summer.

Beaman said summer rates need to be higher because it costs more to produce electricity in the summer than in winter.

Older, less efficient plants are activated in summer to meet the demand, Beaman explained.

Free towing offered

By Andy Sierling Staff writer

MADISON — In an effort to cleanse the city of derelict autos, the Police Department will offer free towing from June 1 to June 15. Mayor John Bellico announced at the City Council meeting May 30.

After June 15, the police will be charged for towing (probably about $30), plus storage fees, plus court costs, plus $50 fines. The total will be $100 or more, depending on how long the vehicle is in storage.

Vehicle owners interested in this temporary free service may call between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. They must have a valid title to the vehicle when the tow truck arrives.

In other action, the council passed a resolution endorsing making membership on the Illinois Commerce Commission elective rather than appointive. The commission sets utility rates.

The measure is being pushed for by the Illinois Citizens Utility Board.

Members of the council's resolution will be sent to the state legislature. Gov. Jim Thompson and other state officials.

In Su

Area above U.S. average in high-tech jobs

By Roger McGrath
Staff affiliate

High-tech manufacturing has found a home in St. Louis. Of the bi-state region's 221,700 manufacturing jobs, high-tech positions total 94,000, which is 38 percent of the local manufacturing workforce, well ahead of the 29 percent of U.S. workers employed in high-tech industry.

A breakdown of the 38 percent shows:
Aerospace—17.4 percent
Industrial chemicals—3.8
Engineering, scientific instruments—2.2
Communications equipment—1.9
Soaps, cleaners—1.3
Drugs—1.3
Electrical industrial apparatus—1.2
Petroleum refining—1.1
Surgical, medical, dental instruments—1.1
Electronic components—1.1
And others—5.5 percent.

There are decided advantages to high-tech jobs, officials say. "Long-term, the move to high-tech strengthens industry and makes more competitive," says Jerry Bratsch, director of the Center for Advanced Manufacturing and Production at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

As a result, "cities that specialize in high technology tend to have faster rates of employment growth," says Thomas Mandelbaum, an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

During the 1979-83 recession, St. Louis' high-tech employment dipped a scant 0.3 percent while manufacturing jobs dropped 6.8 percent, says Gene Boesch, managing director of the St. Louis Technology Center.

And St. Louis manufacturers, by selling to customers across the country and throughout the world, import dollars into the region, he says.

Despite the growth of high-tech manufacturing during the 1980s, the St. Louis community needs to do more to encourage its 70,000 engineers and scientists to take the plunge into starting other high-tech companies, Boesch and others say.

It is asserted that local investors and lenders must be more willing to accept risk and to back high-tech startups. Plus, St. Louis must develop a community culture that encourages those with an idea or a dream to venture into business, it is felt.

"We are taking the first steps" toward developing a risk-taking culture with the success of such high-tech outfits as Systems Integrators Inc., Laser Diode Products Inc. and Kinetek Systems Inc., says George Sloan, of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

Their success also translates into jobs. Systems Integrators, a custom manufacturer of electronic controllers for industrial applications, is about to add its 14th employee, says principal Chet Jankowski.

Laser Diode President Dan Martin expects employment to more than double, to 35, by the end of the year.

The 34 jobs at Kinetek "are 34 jobs that didn't exist two years ago," says President and Chief Executive Mary Kay Tripodi.

Boesch credits St. Louis' strength in high-tech manufacturing to the long-standing policy of McDonnell Douglas Corp., Emerson Electric Co. and Monsanto Co., among others, "to commit a significant percentage of sales to research and development. It is that ongoing effort to produce important new products that leads to economic growth."

Monsanto's research and development expenses last year were 7 percent of sales; McDonnell Douglas' were 4.1 percent. U.S. industry as a whole earmarks 3.5 percent of sales for R&D.

Among smaller companies with aggressive R&D spending is Basier Electric Co., a Highland, Ill., maker of electronic components for utilities and for the personal computer industry.

Basier has more than 30 people in its R&D lab at the Highland plant, 4.3 percent of the plant's more than 700 employees.

When new products developed by researchers don't fit the company's long-term strategy, or the market potential is too small for a large corporation to economically pursue, companies frequently license the new product to the scientists and engineers who developed it.

That is how Kinetek got its start, Tripodi says. Monsanto researchers had developed a system to purify biotechnology products for the pharmaceutical industry, but she says executives decided "they didn't want to be in that business."

So the purification process was licensed to Kinetek, a company organized by Tripodi and others who had worked on the project at Monsanto. "It's great to see something come to fruition," she says.

The decision to leave the security of a big, financially secure company for a startup company was easy for her. "It was a product I'd spent a lot of time on, that I believed in," she says.

The success of Kinetek and other small high-tech manufacturers are steps toward a community culture that encourages risk-taking. "People are willing to take a chance because they've seen others do it and succeed," Sloan says.

"We need in St. Louis to do better at making financing available," Boesch says.

Observes C.E. Anagnostopoulos, managing general partner of Gateway Associates, a local venture capital firm: "There is no more conservative financial community than I have found here in St. Louis." He adds that local lenders need to be a "bit more" willing to take risks.

Pattern in child abuse deaths

To the editor:

Want to give a child the worst possible chance of dying early from abuse or neglect? A recent study of child abuse deaths in Chicago by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services shows how.

- Have the child born into an impoverished neighborhood.
- Put him (or her) in a single-parent household headed by his mother (paramour optional).
- Put another family or two in the same apartment.
- Make him the youngest or only child in the family.
- Give him young, inexperienced parent(s).
- Give his parent(s) a subpar education.
- Encourage or allow the parent(s) to abuse drugs.
- Limit medical and social services in the child's community.

Mix well and let simmer. Within a year, the child could well be dead.

This bone-chilling "recipe" grew from a study of confirmed child abuse deaths in Chicago from fiscal year 1982-1988. In plotting the victim's residences on a map, DCFS analysts discovered that an unusually proportion of deaths had been reported from only a small number of communities. These communities — Austin, East Garfield Park, Englewood, Grand Boulevard, Humboldt Park, New City, North Lawndale, Roseland, South Shore, and West Garfield Park — comprise only 21.5 percent of Chicago's population, but accounted for 47.1 percent of the city's child abuse deaths.

Setting up a randomly selected control group for comparison, DCFS analysts searched for demographic, economic and social threads linking each death. In the 10 high risk communities, 50 percent more people lived in poverty than in the comparison group communities. The average citizen's education level was a full year lower. More than half of all households were headed by women — 50 percent more than in the control group comparison group communities.

Criminal drug abuse rates were higher in the "at risk" communities. So were the teen birth and infant mortality rates. Families were larger, housing was more crowded and social and medical services were fewer and farther between.

The high-risk group, in fact, led the comparison group in only one category: child abuse and neglect deaths. From 1982-1988, 112 confirmed abuse deaths were reported from the high risk communities. A shocking 70 percent of these children did not even live to see their second birthday.

This compares to only 31 confirmed child abuse and neglect deaths in the other communities combined.

All these facts, though, without understanding are merely titillating. And understanding of a problem, without action, serves no useful purpose. The question is: What can be done to give our most vulnerable children a better chance in life?

DCFS has targeted many of its new "Family First" prevention programs toward these high risk communities. Many other agencies are also beginning to redirect attention and resources that way. But by economic necessity, these programs generally treat only the most beleaguered families. While many of these families are able, with help, to rebuild themselves, their individual "cures" are essentially only symptomatic relief of much greater problems. If we really want to keep babies from dying, we must get to the root of those problems — poverty, drug abuse, teen parenthood and an under-educated citizenry. But that is not a job for government alone to handle. That is a job that our society as a whole must take on.

Bills deal in cruelty, not research

To the editor:

In our society, cruelty comes in many forms and incarnations. It is our duty to alleviate suffering whenever possible.

Each day we unwittingly perpetuate inhumanity by purchasing household products and cosmetics that have been tested on live restrained animals. The Illinois Legislature is now considering two bills that would prohibit this unnecessary cruelty.

HB 1042 and SB 1061 do not deal with medical research. They deal with product testing — an insidious, archaic occurrence in our industrial society. These bills prohibit the use of live animals in dermal and ocular irritant tests for household products and cosmetics.

The Draize Eye Irritation Test is particularly barbaric. Rabbits are placed in stocks and chemicals are poured into their eyes. From a biological standpoint, numerous differences between a human's eye and a rabbit's eye exist. Rabbits' eyes are far more sensitive to water-based substances than the human eye. Furthermore, new, cost-effective non-animal methods of testing have been developed. Indeed, the Eyetex System and the Agarose Diffusion Method are less costly both in dollars and lives.

Inexplicably, many industries are loathe to adopt these innovative methods. The cruel status quo is perpetuated by their aversion to change. However, over a hundred progressive companies have adopted humane alternatives. These companies should be applauded and patronized.

The countless animals confined in laboratories, many in stocks with their backs broken, are powerless. Their plight is suffering for our "modern conveniences." It is our responsibility to speak for those who cannot. The needless suffering of our fellow creatures must cease.

Please contact your representative and senator and urge them to support these bills. For further information on humane legislation, call the Madison County Humane Society at 656-4405.

Problem with trash is loose dogs, not bags

To the editor:

Making people who have alleys carry their trash to the curb isn't going to solve any bag-tearing problems.

We have ours out a short time and the poor trash collector has to clean up the street, which is not his job. The owners of the dogs that run loose are the problem. How about a few paid fines, then we could hire a couple of good dog catchers to ticket the lawbreakers. The dog doesn't know any better but his master does.

Another problem. Why rake my leaves? Let them blow and the neighbor can rake them. We have some great thinkers running this city. Work for the city, not just your ward. Take a walk once in a while and see the trash that never used to be.

War dead kept liberty alive

The Greater Granite City War Memorial installed May 24 and dedicated on Memorial Day 1989 appropriately calls attention to the more than 250 local men and women who gave their lives to defend democracy in past wars.

Located in Memorial Park in downtown Granite City, the lighted display lists the names of Quad City area war dead as a permanent way of honoring their memory, on Memorial Day and throughout each year. The monument is a credit to those who conceived it and those who helped finance it. Photos elsewhere in today's paper pay salute to those individuals.

In saluting those who died in World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam and Grenada, citizens recognize that their deaths are not merely isolated occurrences fast receding into history.

Although it is tragic that such sacrifices were necessary, their valor enabled freedom to be maintained here and in many areas of the world — a living testimonial to them and an invaluable gift to the succeeding generations.

It is imperative that Americans today and the future dedicate themselves with equal zeal to keeping alive the torch of liberty.

Happy days may be here again

The proposed new contract to be voted on next week reflects great credit on both the United Steelworkers and Granite City Steel/National Steel.

Metro East residents recall not only the decades of growth and good times in local steelmaking but also the recession years in which companies struggled and suffered huge financial losses.

Belt-tightening was necessary, with major emphasis placed on productivity, quality, timeliness, cost and other customer concerns. It is a world market, and competition is severe, often involving foreign governmental subsidies.

Perfection has not been achieved, but progress has been made. This is in the interest of all, because pay, benefits and efficiency must be viewed in the context of viability. Many other steel plants in the United States are idle and rusting.

National Steel and its owners, Nippon Kokan and National Inter-group, deserve much credit for persevering and for correctly concluding that worldwide challenges could be faced and overcome, right here in Granite City.

The thousands of men and women who turn planning and engineering into reality — those who create the fine steel products that meet buyers' needs — merit high praise for their skill and determination to work hard and effectively.

The tentative accord covering a 50-month period not only restores past concessions but also provides raises and other improvements, such as inflation-related payments. Trade and craft training will enable workers to become more versatile, aiding their careers and meeting their company's needs. Job security, profit sharing and gain sharing will continue.

The agreement signals brighter days for Granite City Steel and its staff and for this community and region.

Smoking has no place in school

We hope Wednesday's front page story about new smoking policies at Venice Lincoln Technical Center opened some eyes. It opened ours.

The District 3 Board of Education has changed a long-standing smoking policy at the VLTC, and students will no longer be smoking in the classroom.

In the classroom? Yes, the classroom. Our purported centers of instruction have also become centers of tension release.

Teachers have had the discretion to allow smoking in their classrooms and some have turned it down. Others allowed it, seeing it as a way of coping with the changing times.

But this fall all that changes, and student smokers will be forced to use previously designated smoking areas at the center.

Schools were wrong to ever allow smoking on their premises, particularly after federal experts determined the hazards years ago. But teachers had their lounges, so students figured they were owed equal courtesy. Trouble is the adult decision-makers who bent to the pressure forgot about keeping discipline in the process. A smoking ban is a form of discipline, is it not?

We concentrate so much on the mental health of our students that we frequently lose sight of their physical well being.

We can't change the past. The first district that allowed smoking simply paved the way for others to use the excuse that precedent had been set.

But we can look to the future. Pending legislation would outlaw smoking in public places, such as schools and restaurants. It has become a necessity in order to protect the rights and health of non-smokers.

There is plenty of time in a day for a smoker to light up, and plenty of places to do it where he won't be a bother to others. School is not one of those places.

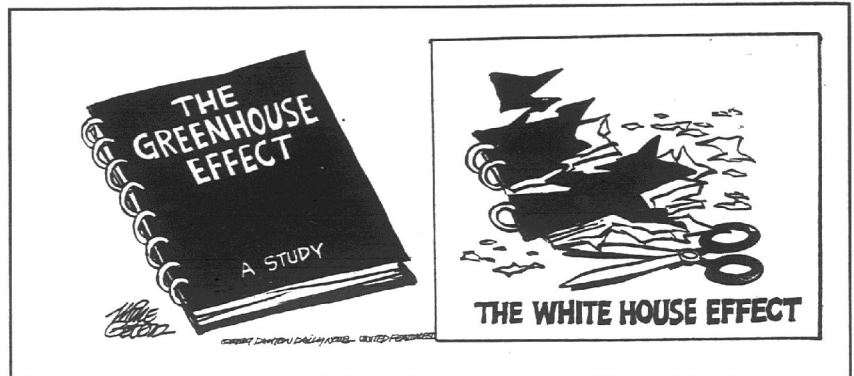

We suggest that Venice Lincoln Technical Center amend its new policy to include another provision — American Cancer Society posters lined throughout the smoking areas. Just because these areas are used for smoking doesn't mean they can't be used for education, too.

Parking project will benefit many

A vehicle parking shortage has plagued Niedringhaus School, the 29th and State streets area, and Wilson Park for many years.

The school system is taking the right step in creating 50 new parking spaces, and there will be great benefit to the city and park district as well, with traffic congestion alleviated.

Decries cemetery vandalism

To the editor:

I have often seen the Odd Fellows Cemetery on Cemetery Road from Route 3.

On the 16th of May I visited, looking for genealogy information.

It dates back into the 1800s and had many high beautiful headstones at one time.

Now many have been destroyed, evidently with the use of some vehicles, such as a four-wheel drive.

I can understand old cemeteries being neglected and grown-over. But why destroy our heritage? Don't our forebearers' graves deserve some respect?

Old cemeteries can be put under perpetual care by a few caring people. I know a few years back the cemetery where my husband's grandfather was buried was placed under perpetual care by donations from relatives and others who cared. Now the cemetery is kept mowed. The old headstones are even cleaned and most are now readable.

Respect paid to law enforcement

To the editor:

I want to thank you and your newspaper for the support you have given our Law Enforcement Recognition Dinner.

The Crime Prevention and Awareness Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce has enjoyed a ground swell of participation from the entire community for this important event. It is gratifying to see so many businesses and individuals that not only provided the financial means but attended the function to demonstrate their respect and appreciation to those who play such an important role in our public safety.

We agree with our Speaker Bob Hardy who stated that, in his opinion, no matter how great the effort of our law enforcement officials, unless our permissive society changed to one of caring action, the incidence of crime and drug abuse would not improve. Without a total commitment from the general public our law enforcement officials are waging a war they cannot win. It was our desire that these deserving law enforcement officers receive proper recognition at least one evening per year. The participation of such large numbers from the Tri-Cities, we feel, projects a positive attitude to these officers and our fellow citizens that they are an integral part of providing a good community in which to work and live.

You too have done more than your share to make this effort a success. Thanks again for your support.

Utility says CUB misleads public

To the editor:

Illinois Power's reorganization plan is an appropriate response by the company to what is the most intensive period of change in its 66-year history.

Not only are we adjusting to current patterns in an industry that is forging a new and more competitive way of doing business, but we are also seeking to include our largest asset — Clinton Power Station — in the price we charge customers. This is business custom, but in a highly regulated industry it's not that simple.

Before launching its most recent charge that Illinois Power is using "smoke and mirrors" in announcing a reduction in workforce, the Citizens' Utility Board should, at the very least, be aware of the facts.

If CUB's District 21 director Ray Hollman had read the news, he would know, as careful readers do, that Illinois Power said, early and often, that the decision to restructure was not the result of a recent unfavorable rate decision from the ICC.

He would know that the company has been openly studying restructuring for several months and that we delayed an announcement only because we did not want to give the appearance we were applying pressure to the ICC. If we would have made the announcement before the ruling, CUB would have undoubtedly labeled it a publicity stunt. Illinois Power is accountable to our customers, the media and also to 25 separate regulatory entities, which scrutinize what we call fact. We cannot print fiction, blow smoke or cleverly adjust our mirrors as some groups which operate without such checks have done.

The fact is that utilities nationwide, including some without nuclear plants, are trimming their workforce and consolidating offices to remain competitive. Many cuts are proportionately deeper than ours.

By offering an enhanced retirement package, we hope to retain as many employees as possible rather than using, as Hollman claims, layoffs as a ploy to win sympathy and support.

With characteristic bombast, CUB speaks of "lining the pockets of company stockholders with the wages of laid-off workers." The company's board of directors has voted to suspend the dividend, a disappointment for shareholders, who have received a dividend every quarter since 1947.

Our public statements since the ICC announcement have been full, forthright and honest. Financial analysts have repeatedly backed up our statements.

Facts, it seems, are too dull for CUB, so their spokesmen often dress up the facts in doing so, CUB often misleads the public they claim to serve.

Message to the Class of 1989

I laughed over the weekend when I saw a cartoon picturing a school superintendent lambasting a graduating class for all the trouble it had given him the past four years. The last panel of the cartoon said, "Oh, by the way, congratulations, Class of '89."

There have been a few supers who would love to take their shots at departing seniors, but instead most speak words of encouragement, usually urging students not to let complacency become their password in life.

Such pep talks are repeated countless times each spring, to the point where most of us have heard it before. The trouble is how often is the truth thrown into the fray? The fact is the real world is tougher, harder to understand, more powerful and less friendly than it has ever been in its history.

Of all the age groups facing challenges of that world, I think those most challenged have got to be the young people now leaving high school. Fun and games are over — the crossroads lie dead ahead.

The "Just Say No" generation now finds it has to say yes to something. More school? The military? Work? Marriage? Mortgage? Man, oh, man.

To some it's an ugly world that awaits them — rife with politics, crime, immorality and greed. To others it's a world of untold resources, all of them offering countless opportunities. I'm an optimist; I'll take the latter view. Opportunity exists. Just watch for it.

True, the world we live in revolves around daily decisions, few of them easy. And as we grow older those decisions seem to grow more important. But there is no reason to be held back. Hard work, enterprise and enthusiasm have paid off for entrepreneurs since long before we declared our independence.

No matter what quality of life you've had to this point, the future is totally up to you. You can't stand on the past or your gain from it.

Either way, if you always think one year ahead, you'll never be catching up. So go for it. Make something of yourself. And let's be careful out there.

Holder opens CVM Realty

GRANITE CITY — Jeanette Holder has opened a CVM (computerized visual marketing) Realty Office at 1367 Niedringhaus Ave., she said offers an exciting, innovative real estate marketing concept.

Holder explained that when an owner wants to sell, CVM uses a camcorder to record the entire property and all its features. This allows the prospective buyer to view property in the comfort of the CVM office. Then, she said, appointments are made to see properties that suit the buyer's wants and needs.

Holder said this will make house hunting more pleasant for the buyer and eliminate the seller's frustration of having to ready his or her property for sightseers who may cancel appointments at the last minute.

Holder said those involved in CVM are very excited and are looking forward to meeting with buyers and sellers to explain the program more fully.

Local resident joins Allstate

Richard Kismar has joined the Allstate Insurance Co. as an agent in the firm's sales office located at 1907 Johnson Road in Granite City.

Kismar will sell a complete line of Allstate products including life, automobile and homeowners insurance. Kismar resides in Granite City.

Agents gets company honors

Charlotte Charbonnier, Joseph Hassler and Bill Frazier, State Farm Insurance Companies agents in Granite City, have been named to the Legion of Honor, one of the firm's most distinguished accomplishments.

Only about 40 percent of State Farm agents qualify for this designation. To qualify, agents must achieve high standards in all aspects of the insurance business, particularly quality.

Additionally, Frazier was awarded the Silver Scroll, an award for 10 consecutive years of qualifying for the Legion of Honor. The Silver Scroll is awarded to less than 9 percent of State Farm's agents.

State Farm is one of the world's largest insurance companies and sells auto fire, life and health insurance. With corporate headquarters in Bloomington, Illinois, the company serves customers with more than 16,000 agents and more than 800 claims offices throughout the United States and Canada.

Red Cross seeks sponsor help

The American Red Cross St. Louis Bi-State Chapter is urgently seeking corporations and civic institutions to sponsor blood drives in June, July, and August when blood needs are high and donations are low.

Director of Account Development, Dana Garner, said eight to 10 more blood drives a week are needed between June 1 and Sept. 30 this year. "Over the next 20 weeks, we need to add 10,000 units to meet the needs of the hospitals."

Those already hosting drives may also make space available for an "Open Blood Drive." Here, a large space is retained, sign-ups are organized at several locations, and donors are directed to the selected donation site.

Anyone interested in sponsoring either an employee blood drive or an open blood drive should call Red Cross today at (314) 658-2126.

The Red Cross said these services are extended to 146 hospitals in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

GC Steel makes appointments

Bill Swanson, Granite City Steel Division vice president and general manager, announced the appointment of Joe Kocot to the newly named position of director, Central Maintenance and Utilities.

The appointment was made in conjunction with an announcement that a decision had been made to split the division's present Facility Services Business Unit into two new business units.

Facility Services Director Fred Steinkuehler chose to become director of the new business unit of Engineering and Environmental Quality Control (EEQC), and Kocot was appointed as director of the new business unit of Central Maintenance and Utilities.

Prior to the split, Facility Services Business Unit included Engineering, EEQC and Central Maintenance functions. All of these functions have received increased emphasis because of the division's critical capital projects, increasingly stringent environmental regulations, and the thrust toward maintenance administration and a mobile maintenance philosophy.

Before his appointment to director, Kocot was manager of ironmaking yard and shops. Kocot worked in the Primary Maintenance area since being hired by Granite City Steel in 1958.

Kocot lives with his wife, Sue, and children Christine and Michael in Collinsville.

CBA lauds insurance bill

The Community Bankers Association of Illinois has announced that legislation to allow state banks to sell insurance has successfully passed the Illinois Senate.

"Enactment of this legislation will represent a milestone in restoring competitive equality to Illinois financial institutions as well as create greater competition in the insurance industry," said Wilfred Cross, president of CBAI and the First National Bank of O'Fallon, Ill.

Currently, insurance can be sold by every corporate entity in the state except state banks and national banks in towns with populations over 5,000.

"Savings and loan associations, credit unions and finance companies all offer insurance products to their customers," Cross said.

This legislation will allow banks to better compete with other financial institutions while providing an added convenience to customers, he said.

S.B. 100, sponsored by Sens. Greg Zito (D-Melrose Park) and Judy Barr-Topinka (R-North Riverside) now goes to the Illinois House of Representatives for consideration.

In a flexible workforce ...

Temporary work, permanent career?

FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS — Once her youngest daughter entered kindergarten, Marilyn Jenks was eager to resume her career. But after an 11-year absence from the workforce, her accounting skills were rusty. She was also inexperienced with computers, since office automation was still more idea than reality when she left the work world.

Marilyn decided to take an evening class in computerized accounting to make herself more marketable to employers. The first night, she sat next to a recent college graduate named Sarah, who told her that she was taking the class to upgrade her on-the-job skills — and that her employer was splitting the cost with her. Marilyn thought the company sounded very progressive.

She was astounded to learn that her classmate was a temporary worker and that her company, a local temporary employment service, had encouraged her to take similar courses throughout her six months with them. And as Sarah's skills and marketability grew, so did her pay rate.

"Temporary work has come a long way since its genesis in this country following World War II. Once, temporaries were strictly substitute secretaries," Singer Paul McCartney even penned a tune called, "Temporary Secretary," nearly a decade ago.

Today, he'd be singing quite a different tune. "The flexible workforce" encompasses a wide spectrum of job categories, from accountants to word processors, bank trainees to draftspeople, marketing specialists to health care professionals. Over the past decade, the number of people working as temporaries on any given day has nearly tripled, from fewer than 350,000 per day in 1978, to over one million people at the end of last year. Temporary help is one of the fastest growing industries in the nation, comprising one percent of the total labor force. Close to 90 percent of all companies now use temporaries as an economical supplement to full-time staffing.

This tremendous growth has been fueled by a number of facmothers, and other individuals who prefer to work part-time enjoy the scheduling flexibility temporary work affords them.

It may also lead to a permanent position, if that is what you want. Research has shown that at any given time, up to half the people working as temporaries are actively seeking a permanent job.

The notion that temporary work is synonymous with "low pay, no benefits" is a common misconception. Actually, just the they greet you with a smile and an offer of coffee? Is the staff warm, friendly, knowledgeable, and interested in your needs?

A good temporary service will assist you to participate in a thorough screening process, often involving an interview, one or more skill or aptitude tests, reference checks, and if you are hired by the service, an orientation process.

Once you've signed on with the firm, stay in frequent contact. You'll develop a good rapport with the office staff if you keep them apprised of any changes to your assignment.

You can register with more than one service, increasing your chances that there will be an assignment available for you on any given day. However, the service may also come to depend on you as one of its "star" temporaries, and call you first for plum assignments in your field or area of interest.

The outlook for the future is bright. The concept of using temporary help has been fully accepted by the business community. Whether your skills and interests lie in office technology, the technical/professional arena, health care, or the industrial/manufacturing sector, temporary work may be a permanent solution for you.

Dianna Barron is the owner of Adia Personnel Services, Fairview Heights, Ill. (franchise office Adia is one of the largest temporary, permanent personnel placement firms in the United States with over 500 offices, including 19 in Illinois).

Temporaries are so much a part of the American workforce that the U.S. Office of Personnel Management has authorized federal agencies to begin using them.

tors. Ever since the 1982 recession, companies have had to come to grips with the need to maintain a lean permanent staff in order to avoid mass layoffs during slow periods.

Today, more firms make temporary help a budgetary line item, as one component of a strategic staffing plan. In fact, temporaries are so much a part of the American workforce that, for the first time ever, the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) has authorized federal agencies to begin using temporary workers from private temporary help services.

The reasons for working temporary in 1989 are as varied as individual lifestyles. Temping is an excellent way for students, or recent graduates such as Sarah, to sample a variety of work options before settling on one career. Re-entry homemakers like Marilyn can brush up on rusty skills before searching for a permanent job. Retirees, new opposite is true. In today's competitive labor market, temporaries' pay rates keep pace with comparable salaries for permanent staff. In addition, many firms offer an array of attractive benefit options, from paid holidays and vacations, tenure pay increases and referral bonuses, to health insurance and tuition reimbursement for business courses.

How do you begin working as a temporary? First, identify a few temporary services in your area and contact each one. You can learn what services are available from friends and acquaintances, as Marilyn did; from reading the help wanted ads in your local newspaper, or by looking in the Yellow Pages under "Employment Services."

Next, arrange an interview with each service you've selected. See how you're treated. Do

Social Security tips

Is Social Security tax paid for son in Dad's store?

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

Q. My 17-year-old son works in my store on Saturdays and during his summer vacations. Do I have to pay Social Security tax on his pay?

A. No, you don't. The wages you pay your son before he turns 18 are not covered by Social Security. Once he turns 18, however, the wages will be covered. The age at which a business owner's child is covered by Social Security changed from 21 to 18 effective Jan. 1, 1988.

If your business is incorporated, though, your son would be an employee of the corporation — not your employee. In that situation, his wages would be subject to Social Security taxes.

Q. I have a complete medical check-up each year, just in case I'm going on Medicare this November. Will Medicare pay for my check-up?

A. Medicare does not pay for routine medical expenses such as annual check-ups. It usually pays only for the treatment of acute illness or injury.

There are three exceptions to that rule. Medicare will pay for pneumococcal vaccine, to try to prevent pneumonia. It also will pay for hepatitis B vaccinations for Medicare patients who are considered to be at high risk of contracting that disease. And, beginning next year, Medicare will pay for mammography screening for women.

Q. My mother, age 62, is financially dependent on me. She never worked outside the home and my father died before self-employed people came under Social Security. I am worried about what would happen to her if I should die. Is there any Social Security benefit she could get?

A. It is a little-known fact that survivor's benefits may be paid to a dependent parent if the parent is at least 62 years old.

The parent must have been receiving at least one-half of his or her support from the deceased and can't be entitled to more Social Security based on his or her own work.

Only about 8,000 people get benefits as surviving parents. That's less than two-hundredths of 1 percent of the total number of people getting Social Security.

Q. My arthritis is getting worse all the time. There are some months that I can hardly sign my name on my Social Security check. Can I have my daughter sign my name?

A. You should not have someone else sign your name. If a person is unable to sign, signature by mark (X) is acceptable. The mark must be witnessed by two people who sign their names and show their addresses.

Another alternative is to request that your checks be sent to your bank, savings and loan or credit union via direct deposit. You can call Social Security at 800-234-5772 to get this done.

Q. I am a career federal employee. I also have worked in part-time jobs and paid into Social Security. I sent for an estimate of my Social Security benefits, but they said I still need one quarter of coverage to get my 40 quarters of coverage. How much will I need to earn in 1989 to get that quarter?

A. All you need to earn in 1989 is $500 in Social Security-covered work to get that last quarter of coverage. Earnings of $2,000 will earn you four quarters of coverage for this year.

Information on travel for disabled at Expo

The largest new market to emerge for the travel industry in the 1980s is the disabled traveler, according to Robert S. Zywicki, editor and publisher of The Itinerary, the world's only magazine for travelers with disabilities.

Zywicki is president of Whole Person Tours Inc., an operator of accessible vacations and one of the exhibitors at Abilities Expo. The Expo is a show of products and services for the disabled, senior citizens, and health professionals at the Cervantes Convention Center in St. Louis on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 2-4.

"Travelers with disabilities essentially want to visit the same places and do the same things as other people," he said. "In 1985 there were 19 million hotel bookings made by people with disabilities. As disabled people have successful travel experiences, the word of mouth spreads and the numbers grow."

"There are numerous opportunities available. Virtually every major hotel and motel chain now has some provision for guests with disabilities, and the domestic airlines are quite accustomed to serving passengers with disabilities," Zywicki said.

"People just have to do research and preplanning to assure themselves the least amount of inconvenience, or they can take one of our organized accessible tours where this has already been done by professionals."

There also will be exhibits on employment opportunities, organizations, rehabilitation services, travel and recreation as well as workshops, art exhibits and sports demonstrations.

Abilities Expo is open to the public, admission free Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, June 4, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Cervantes Convention Center is located at 801 Convention Plaza in downtown St. Louis.

APA elects officers, will reopen shelter

The Association for the Protection of Animals held its annual election on May 1.

Officers chosen for 1989-90 were: Judy Gordon, president; Norma Ruhl, vice president; Margaret Heinemann, secretary; and Thelma Mitchell, treasurer.

The following positions were also filled: Shelter supervisor, Pat Anderson; and dog and cat supervisor, Rose Atkins.

Margaret Fisk has resigned her position as adoption and cat and dog supervisor.

Fisk and her husband, Bo, have both dedicated much time and effort at the shelter to care for the animals, Gordon said.

"As Margaret had provided a large portion of the care to the animals, we find ourselves more now than ever in urgent need of volunteers to assist in caring for the cats, dogs and shelter," Gordon said.

Those interested in volunteering time to the shelter may call Thelma Mitchell at 451-9295 or Norma Ruhl at 877-6904.

Additional volunteers will be needed to fully re-open the shelter in the near future.

The community is being reminded that the shelter is solely maintained by donations from the public.

Donations may be sent to P.O. Box 1311, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Persons may call Mitchell if they have any questions.

Food baskets also have been set up at the local National and Schnuck markets for contributions from the public.

Briggs backs new tax for education

GRANITE CITY — Harry A. Briggs Jr., regional superintendent of schools of Madison County, said he supports a proposed two-year surcharge on the Illinois income tax in order to fund education.

The surcharge is being sponsored by Michael J. Madigan, speaker of the House of Representatives, and would generate revenue that would be divided equally between schools and local governments.

Briggs said he is pleased with Madigan taking the lead on the tax proposal, which would provide $257 million more for elementary and secondary education than Gov. James Thompson proposed in the fiscal year 1989-90 budget plan. Thompson earlier had urged a tax increase but Madigan disagreed.

Briggs noted that Madigan's House Bill 490 has yet to be acted on by the Senate and also is subject to action by the governor.

Briggs warned that Madison

County school districts cannot count on the additional revenue at this time.

He urged voters involved in pending local referendums to proceed as though there were no guarantee of increased funding coming from the state.

"At best, Madigan's is only a two-year plan. It is important that we look at education funding from a combined perspective of local, state and federal sources. Combined resources will more adequately address many of the financial difficulties our schools face and will insure a more stable financial base for the future," he said.

Briggs asked citizens to contact their legislators and the governor, requesting their support of HB490. If the proposed surcharge passes and is signed into law, elementary and secondary schools in Madison County would receive $8,796,000 more in general state aid than they received in FY '89, he said.

graders from Madison County are invited to attend. The program will include drug education, leadership skills and recreational activities. Parents need to provide transportation and complete registration form.

THE CENTRAL INSCRIPTION on the Greater Granite City War Memorial in Memorial Park.

Monument result of years of dedication

Years of pouring over miles of newspaper microfilm and hundreds of hours of meticulous research culminated in the dedication of the Greater Granite City War Memorial on Memorial Day.

Steve Conkovich, chairman of the project, began the task and was aided by retired Fire Chief Joe Holder, co-chairman, in seeing the endeavor to its end. The list of names, including the 224 men and women from the Quad City area killed in World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam and Grenada, is engraved in two monoliths of gray granite on either side of a black granite stone dedicating the monument to their memories.

From six flagpoles surrounding the memorial fly the flags of the five armed forces — Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard — and the U.S. flag, both day and night. The memorial is located in Memorial Park at Niedringhaus Avenue and 21st Street.

More than $25,000 has been raised to cover the cost of the monument — collected in shopping centers, on street corners and through donations from veterans' groups, businesses and individuals.

The fund is about $1,000 short of the costs incurred. Contributions are still being accepted through the office of Fire Chief Charlie Bernaix, 2300 Madison Ave.

GETTING A CLOSER LOOK at the monument are some of the hundreds who attended its dedication on Memorial Day. Men and women numbering 224 killed in both World Wars, Korea, Vietnam and Grenada are listed.

Judy's daughter wowing audiences with desert songs

Who is the best show-business performer these days? One of the candidates is "Liza with a Z," actress/singer Liza Minnelli, daughter of the late actress/singer Judy Garland.

Many well-known entertainers appear in Las Vegas, from where we returned Friday night, so no simple answer can be found in that desert oasis; it depends on your preference.

But on the weekend prior to the Memorial Day weekend, her capacity crowd paid up to $75 a seat, compared to $50 for such competitors as Frank Sinatra.

Liza is the only woman to have won the Las Vegas Entertainer of the Year honor for three consecutive years.

HER SELECTION of music was unusual, although she did include a medley of songs written for her in connection with several Broadway plays and Hollywood movies. Would you believe she also sang "Shine On, Harvest Moon?" Show-stoppers, included a Broadway number, "Ring Them Bells," prompting the orchestra to respond with a wide range of bell sounds, and "New York, New York." The latter is her finale, as well as the trio's finale when she tours with Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr.

Most of her songs were relatively obscure selections from Broadway productions, including a couple from one of her hit plays, "Cabaret." Her current movie is "Arthur II (Arthur on the Rocks)" with Dudley Moore.

MAKING ONLY ONE reference to her late mother and none to her late father, film director Vincent Minnelli, the superstar can stand — and dance — on her own two feet, and clearly wants to do just that.

She has won an Oscar, Emmy, Golden Globe and three Tonys, proving her dramatic and vocal skills, and easily achieves rapport with her audience. Her energy, voice control and sense of humor are among her best qualities.

Winter wonderland

By Bill Winter

Her motion picture debut, incidentally, occurred 40 years ago. At the age of three, she was seen in her mother's film, "In the Good Old Summertime."

NEVADA VACATION attractions include not only Las Vegas but also Reno and Lake Tahoe. And a fast-growing addition to this list is the town of Laughlin, located just across the Colorado River from Arizona. We spent a day there, mainly at the Golden Nugget and Pioneer. Also at Laughlin are such hotels/casinos as the Colorado Belle, Riverside, Sam's Town, Gold River, Ramada Express, Regency, Edgewater and Har- rah's Del Rio.

The Oak Ridge Boys country/western quartet was among those set to appear in Laughlin over the holiday weekend.

An even bigger Laughlin holiday than Memorial Day is River Days, featuring a soap box derby, a parade and fireworks.

MUSIC IS NOT the only reason to visit tourist sites in Nevada. There is the gambling, as in the past, we won at blackjack and lost at the slot machines.

In addition, Las Vegas has become a principal center of boxing matches. On June 12, "The War" will take place at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas — a return bout between Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas "Hit Man" Hearns. Ringside seats are $800.

It was eight years ago when Leonard rallied to stop Hearns in the 14th round. They are described as the only men ever to hold world boxing titles in five different weight divisions.

The 12-round fight will be shown live nationally on closed-circuit television and pay-per-view.

SPEAKING OF PAY-TV, one of Las Vegas' biggest-grossing performers, Wayne Newton, last week presented a live concert beamed to more than 700 cities from a Las Vegas showroom. It only cost $14.95 at your home, but you didn't get the usual two drinks.

Newton presented non-televized shows in Las Vegas over Memorial Day, as did Sinatra, Tony Bennett, Sam Kinison, the Four Freshmen, Joan Rivers, Jeffrey Osborne, Sherman Hemley and Connie Francis.

The last-named singer, attempting a comeback in her career, is reputed to have sold more records than any other woman singer. Her hits included "Everybody's Somebody's Fool," "Who's Sorry Now," "Lipstick on Your Collar," "Where the Boys Are" and, lest we forget, "Stupid Cupid."

DO YOU LIKE a hearty laugh? Las Vegas audiences do. We attended The Comedy Store at the Dunes. Other comedy-club shows featured simultaneously were Catch a Rising Star at Bally's, the Improv at the Riviera and Rodney's Place at the Tropicana.

Circus and magic acts also abound in Las Vegas, which you may recall was where the late Elvis Presley had his greatest concert successes.

Elvis' image and sound may go on forever, and not just through films and records. He continues to be portrayed in several live Vegas "memories" and "legends" stage productions.

Simon calls for swift passage of disabled 'bill of rights' act

WASHINGTON — Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., is calling for swift passage of the 1989 Americans With Disabilities Act, a "bill of rights" to prohibit discrimination against people with disabilities.

A member of the Senate Subcommittee on the Handicapped, he is a principal co-sponsor of landmark legislation introduced May 9 in the U.S. Senate.

"By not fully using the human resources of our nation — by allowing discrimination to stand in the way of full participation by the estimated 15 percent of our population who have some form of disabling condition — we weaken ourselves as a nation," said Simon. "We are not fulfilling the promise of the American dream to all of our citizens."

The legislation, which has drawn wide bipartisan congressional support and the endorsement of a coalition of 180 major national organizations, prohibits discrimination in employment, public accommodation, public services, transportation and telecommunications.

Employment discrimination provisions exempt businesses with less than 15 employees.

In the long term, Simon contended, the legislation could save money, both in welfare now paid to people with disabilities unable to get jobs, and in lost taxes.

It is estimated that more than $100 billion a year is being spent by federal, state and local governments to sustain people with disabilities in welfare situations. An estimated $200 billion more may be lost in taxes and in expenditures by non-profit organizations and family members.

"And there is simply no way to put a price tag on the lost dignity and independence of individuals who want to be contributing members of their families, their communities and their country," said Simon, long a leader on disability issues.

Introduction of the legislation coincided with the 25th anniversary of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, legislation guaranteeing civil rights to minorities.

In his statement at a hearing of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, Simon quoted the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.: "In our society it is murder, psychologically, to deprive a man of a job or an income. You are in substance saying to that man that he has no right to exist."

Simon added this comment: "For too long we have been allowing this message to be given to men and women with disabilities in our society. Discrimination in all its forms is a destroyer of the human spirit — and it is most certainly a destroyer of the promise of America to all of her citizens."

Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan at the hearing told about his work in Illinois to end discrimination and provide opportunities for people with disabilities, including creation of the Disabled Persons Advocacy Division within his office. It is the first full-fledged division in any attorney general's office in the country devoted exclusively to disability rights.

It's a rich, ripe season for strawberry lovers

By Pamela Selbert
Staff writer

When the sky is clear, the sun shines down warmly on rich fields gleaming red with thousands of succulent strawberries waiting to be picked and devoured.

During the cold winter it sometimes seems like strawberry season will never get here. And when it does, it is a short season — only about a month long.

Strawberry patches now are bursting and ripe for picking, said Albert Diehl, owner of Diehl Nurseries in Columbia, Ill. Since 1946, Diehl has made his living growing fields of strawberries for pick-your-own enthusiasts to harvest.

Prior to this winter, in all his years of raising strawberries, Diehl said he never had seen a winter that did not do at least a little "freeze damage" to the berries. But this year there was no damage.

"I have 14 acres in strawberries and I expect upwards of 10,000 pounds of berries will be harvested per acre," he said. Cultivation methods are better today, and for the past few years Diehl has been "fumigating the soil," killing any bacteria that may be harmful to the plants.

Each of his 14 acres also is irrigated so Diehl can control the "amount of rainfall they get," but he adds that too much water can be just as harmful to strawberries as too little.

"This year's strawberries are 'huge and deep red and very sweet,'" he said. In the fall, berry patches are covered with straw and new plants generally begin to appear the first week in April. This year, plants were slowed a little by cold weather in late March and early April, but "as temperatures warmed up, the plants began growing by leaps and bounds, and in less than two weeks were fighting to get out of the straw," Diehl said.

How long the picking season will last depends on the weather, Diehl said. "The biggest enemy is too much rain during harvest, because you lose time picking, and the berries can rot," he said.

Diehl said he observes the ups and downs of pick-yourselfers. "Years ago, people were swarming on the fields, but then it seemed everyone's life got too busy," he said. "Now, though, I'm seeing more young people out in the fields."

Diehl is selling his berries for about 58 cents a pound if you pick them yourself. He also has workers who pick berries for sale for customers who prefer to drive over and buy their berries already picked for $1.35 a quart.

For people who won't be eating the berries right away, Diehl has some freezing suggestions.

"Wash them lightly leaving the stems on, then spread them out on a cookie sheet," he said. "Freeze them, package them, and they'll stay much firmer."

Diehl said he has only one request of do-it-yourselfers: "Children are welcome in the fields; I even reserve some outside rows only for them. But I do ask that there be one adult to each child," he said. To get to the Diehl strawberry fields from St. Louis, take Ill. 101, which goes south to the Mississippi. Large signs will welcome visitors to the fields. For more information call 281-4929.

COREY PARKER gives professional wrestling (in the person of Queen Kong) a spin to impress the admissions committee in "How I Got Into College."

'How I Got Into College' boring summer comedy

By Harry Hamm
Staff writer

If you are a high school senior who is concerned about being accepted at a good college, you might find one or two enjoyable moments in "How I Got Into College."

This floundering comedy is directed by 29-year-old Savage Steve Holland, a film maker responsible for gems like "Better Off Dead" (1985) and "One Crazy Summer" (1986).

"College" tells the story of a frustrated high school senior (Corey Parker) who is trying to make a decent score on his SATs so he can follow his dream sweetheart (Lara Flynn Boyle) to college.

In what is an obvious high-and-miss attempt to boost the film's entertainment value, joke after joke is tossed out.

Rated PG-13 (adult situations, language). Running time: 86 minutes.

May ratings cause for glee for each TV station in Big 3

By Ian MacBryde
Staff writer

They're celebrating at KMOV-TV, Channel 4. They're pleased at KTVI-TV, Channel 2. But they're still in first place at KSDQ-TV, Channel 5. And all of that is based on the May ratings according to Nielsen.

In television, appreciation for where you are depends a great deal on where you've been.

At Channel 4 ...

Jim Rothschild, Channel 4's director of programming, is celebrating because, for the first time in a while, one of the station's newscasts is tied for first place with local juggernaut Channel 5. That's the noon newscast, and Rothschild says that Nielsen reports ratings for each station are 9.2 (percent of television sets in the market operating and tuned to that particular program). He says that is the first time since January 1987 that Channel 4 has had a news program in first place. (Incidentally, that was right after anchor Larry Connors joined the station from Channel 2 two winters ago. The rating was widely considered an aberration, because many of the viewers who changed channels with Connors didn't stick.)

Channel 5 has dominated the market since 1984 when a combination of "Jeopardy," "Wheel of Fortune," winning NBC prime-time programming, aggressive promotion and strong news efforts by the station merged to make Channel 5 the network's highest-rated affiliate in the country.

Channel 4 news director Al Bolter sees his station's breakthrough at noon as an indication of positive changes yet to come. He points out that his station's 5 p.m. newscast has inched a little closer to Channel 5's offering, as did the extremely important (to advertisers) 10 p.m. news. But, as was widely predicted, the total number of people watching the two affiliates decreased, according to the new metering system Nielsen used for the first time in this market. (Metering usually indicates more people watch the independent stations and less successful stations in the market than the "diary" system reports.)

Just two clicks away ... Why are they so pleased at Channel 2? "Very pleased," according to program director Susan Matthews? Well, Channel 2 held on to the same rating and share in May it had in February for its 5 p.m. newscast, and that, considering the decline for its affiliate competition, is a victory of sorts.

And, far more important to everyone concerned, Channel 2 actually improved its standing at 10 p.m. by 50 percent. Now, the bad news for Channel 2 is that even a marked improvement still left it at a 6 rating — a miserable number for a network affiliate for its prime newscast. But Everett indicated that the higher rating reflects both the metering system and a better news product.

Finally, from the champ ... Meanwhile, Bill Bolter, general manager of Channel 5, who has driven the station to the top, says nothing much has changed. Bolter has numbers demonstrating that, although the total number of people watching his news is reported slightly down under the new ratings system, his percentage of the people watching news (rather than other programming) actually is holding steady.

Soil improvement pays dividends

Plants grow in a wide range of soil types, but they need good soil to perform well. To get the most from your gardening efforts, take the time to find out what your soil needs and to modify it before planting.

A soil test is an excellent way to identify what should be added for a particular crop to thrive. However, nearly all soils require the addition of organic matter on a regular basis. This matter supplies both nutrients and the beneficial bacteria that break down nutrients, converting them into a form that roots can take up.

Organic matter is any form of decaying plant or animal matter and is best applied to the garden when it is partially broken down. This is the stage when the matter is releasing the nutrients that were taken up when the plants were growing actively. Material that has broken down completely has lost its nutritional value and does not benefit the garden.

Compost made by the home gardener from leaves and other leftover healthy plant parts is the ideal compost to use. If you do not have this, then animal manure that is free of weed seed may be used. The animal manure should be fairly fresh. If not, the nutrients will have been washed away by rain. But remember that fresh manure should be used sparingly as it can burn the tender roots. Dried commercial manure is sold but should be used as a light side-dressing on plants and not to improve the soil.

Peat moss or mulch also should be used to amend the soil. Though peat moss has little plant food value, it "opens" the soil, improving drainage and bringing in more air, which is needed for good root action. In contrast to peat moss, the finer mulches that are available are partially decomposed and therefore supply some of the necessary nutrients. It is important not to use fresh sawdust or fresh wood chips because they absorb nitrogen from the soil when first applied. The eventual result may be a nitrogen deficiency or stunted plant growth. This can be offset somewhat by applying extra nitrogen, but as the sawdust or wood chips start to decompose, they can release too much nitrogen, which in turn will lead to heavy, soft growth. This soft growth is more prone to insect and disease.

Gardening

By Bob Dingwall

When adding organic material, make sure you use enough. The recommended amount is 2 to 3 inches for every 6 to 8 inches in soil depth. Dig or till in to thoroughly incorporate with the soil. Commercial fertilizer and other materials recommended by the soil test can be added at the same time.

If you are a new gardener, start with a small area and improve it properly, then add to it later if time and material are available. Do you have problems with your garden or household plants? If so, direct your questions to: The Garden Spot, St. Louis News Service, 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 108, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

Gutters, downspouts need help to perform effectively

Gutters, downspouts and drains protect the home against an old enemy — water. We can't live without it, but sometimes it's hard to live with it, especially when it is coming through a ceiling light fixture, causing cracks in plaster walls or is running down into the room, staining the wall, upholstery and carpet. Water is essential to life, but comes at a high price unless carefully controlled.

Because gutters, downspouts and drains help provide that control, it is essential that they perform effectively.

The gutters around the eaves of your house cannot differentiate between water and debris. If gravel from shingles, seeds from trees, leaves, twigs and other debris that somehow collect on the roof enters the gutter, it can be carried by the water to the downspout entrance, which then may become clogged.

Guard against fires: be a cautious cook

Cooking is the most common cause of apartment fires. The National Safety Council emphasizes the importance of paying attention when preparing food — don't leave pots and pans unattended while you talk on the phone or watch TV.

Also, do not hang spice racks, potholders or towel racks over the stove where they can easily catch fire. Keep broilers, ovens and hoods free of grease.

If you have a grease fire in a pan on the stove, turn off the burner immediately and put a lid over the pan to cut off air.

When this happens, water overflows the gutters and runs back against the house where it can damage the paint and the woodwork. It also can back-flow up under shingles, flow into cracks in the roofing boards, and then into an opening in the attic, crawl space or ceiling of the rooms below.

There are several materials and procedures that can help prevent problems. First, you should install a catch-all screen over the downspout opening. This will stop clogs and permit the water to flow, even though debris is present.

The second "must" is to have flashing installed, if you don't already have it, under the shingles nearest the gutters. This keeps water from reaching the boards under the shingles and prevents the capillary action that pulls water into the boards, causing them to rot.

Flashing is a metal angle strip. It is not necessary to fasten the flashing to the roof, but a couple of short tacks near the top of the flashing can serve to hold it in place.

Some people like to screen the entire gutter surface. This is fine, so long as the water will flow freely into the gutters. Pine needles and leaves, however, can block the screen just as they can block the downspouts. There is one drawback to screening. If snow accumulates on the roof, there is always the danger that when a thaw comes, the snow will melt and form a dam over the screening. This forces the melting water to back up under the shingles and cause serious leaks through the roof.

The solution to this problem is to remove the screens before the first snow and replace them in the spring. Each time — twice a year the gutters should be cleaned thoroughly, taking care not to let the debris go down the downspout. This will clog the drainage system around the house or eventually fill up the dry wells under the downspouts.

Gutters and downspouts that are not made of aluminum should be replaced because they will rust from within and could direct runoff water against the wooden parts of the house.

Drains, such as a curtain drain around a house to carry off excessive ground water and runoff during storms, can become clogged if the downspouts empty into the drain.

If a curtain drain becomes clogged, it is possible that water carried off through a working drain will cause enough hydrostatic pressure to come up through the basement floor, crack the cement slab and flood the basement — not a good prospect for a finished game room or a storeroom full of family memorabilia.

Deja vu bad for Lady Warriors

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

ALTON — Let's see. Haven't we heard this one before? Granite City and Collinsville are playing for the sectional girls soccer championship. The Lady Kahoks take a 1-0 lead into the closing minutes of regulation time, but the Lady Warriors tie it and force overtime. Neither team scores in four five-minute overtime periods.

The game goes to penalty kicks and the teams are tied after the first round of five. Finally, Missy Halbrooks of Collinsville wins the game on the 10th penalty kick and the Lady Kahoks go to state while the Lady Warriors (12-2-2) go home full of tears and frustration.

Sound familiar? It happened on May 24, 1988. Now comes the sickening part. It happened again Tuesday in the championship game of the Alton Sectional at Gordon Moore Park. Deja vu. Exactly the same.

Halbrooks beat Lady Warrior freshman keeper Jennifer Wortham to the lower left corner to give Collinsville (13-5-2) a 4-2 edge in the second round of penalty kicks with only one Granite City shot left. So the Lady Kahoks will again make the trip north to state this weekend.

"This is a tough one for the girls to swallow," said Lady Warrior coach Gene Baker. "We have won these types of games with the boys, but the girls still have to learn to do it. It's tough to lose like this, but great to win."

A year ago, Cheryl Stacey tied the game at Collinsville's Football Bowl with 1:41 left before Halbrooks finally won by beating then-goalie Addie Lenzi. This time, freshman Amanda Witter tied the game on a pop fly which eluded the grasp of Lady Kahok keeper Julie Corrie with just 33 seconds left in regulation time.

Through two regular five-minute overtimes and two sudden death periods the teams fought without a decision. Each team scored three times in the second round of penalty kicks, with Baker alternating regular keeper Chris Kasproovich and Wortham, who was dressed due to an injury to freshman backup Leslie Stacey. Jennifer Debeve got the final goal on the 10th kick of the first round to tie it. But Julie Dempsey and Stacey were stopped by Corrie in the second round while a shot by Lady Kahok freshman Mandy Scaggis bounced off Wortham's hand, off the post and in for a 2-1 Collinsville edge through six kicks.

"I was going to move Halbrooks up," said Collinsville coach Dave Jenkins. "But I knew it was looking like last year, so I decided to keep her in the 10th spot. It was basically deja vu from last year."

There was a strong northerly wind blowing all night and play alternated by quarters with the wind. The Lady Warriors had several good chances in the second quarter, particularly by Stacey, who hit the bar once and was robbed by Corrie on another occasion.

"I thought that was our opportunity," said Baker. "We played them off the field in the second quarter. But we just didn't score."

"We dodged the bullet there," Jenkins said.

Collinsville broke the ice three minutes into the third quarter on a fluke goal. A long shot by Mindy Holcomb was headed by Angela Blasson over Kasproovich's head and in.

Jamie Casillas and Thompson had chances to increase the lead, but couldn't do it and the Lady Warriors finally tied it just before the final whistle. Witter picked up a loose ball and popped it high in the air. The wind carried it perfectly and Witter had her ninth goal of the year — and most dramatic.

"Both goals were a little tainted," Jenkins said. "The wind was such a strong factor all night."

Also a factor was that Corrie, a junior, was in the same spot last year and has faced penalty kicks twice in each of the last two seasons prior to the sectional.

"I just watch the ball all the way in," said Corrie. "Once you stop one it gets easier from there on. And you can't get down when they score on you."

game in Alton. The concerned looks were warranted as Collinsville eliminated Granite City from post-season play.

Warriors never had chance against steamrolling Tigers

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

EDWARDSVILLE — Sunday's rains forced a two-hour delay in the start of Monday's championship game of the Edwardsville Regional.

Instead of 1 p.m., the Edwardsville Tigers got started at 3 p.m. It's not certain if the Warriors ever did get going. In one of the most one-sided baseball games you would ever want to see, the Tigers (36-5) rolled to a convincing 12-0 victory over Granite City, which ended its season at 23-14.

Given one word to describe the afternoon, Stegemeyer didn't hesitate.

"Embarrassed," he said. "What was most embarrassing was not catching a fly ball in left field that should have been caught, then throwing the ball away in the sixth inning."

Stegemeyer knew all year the Warriors had a chance to jump the Tigers if they could stay close and get some breaks. Instead, Edwardsville was ahead 3-0 moments after the first pitch and 7-0 after two innings. That was more than enough for Adam Lynn, who pitched a three-hit shutout. Lynn, a senior right-hander, has pitched 25 scoreless innings in post-season play since losing the 1987 regional title game 3-4 to the Warriors.

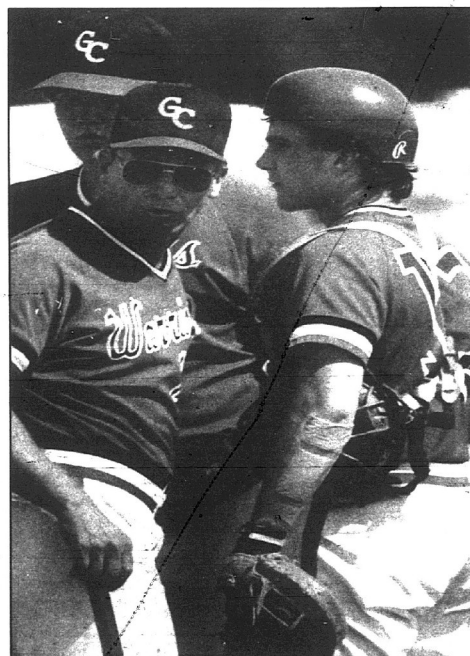

"Adam was really on (Monday)," said Tiger coach Tom Pile. "If there's one thing he tends to do, it's get the ball up. And that concerned me with the wind blowing out to left field. Granite City has some good hitters like (Kurt) Hodges, (Joe) Wallace and (Kory) Burton. They can hurt you. They have played some good baseball recently."

But Lynn (7-2, 1.61 ERA) was never in danger.

"He gets behind a little more often than he should," said Stegemeyer. "But he was awful tough. I think we only had two fly balls all day."

To keep close, the Warriors needed some pitching and didn't get much. Tim Black started and took the loss (3-3) in only one inning. None of the three runs in the first were earned, but that was largely due to Black's throwing error on Mark Little's bunt to start the game.

"We had to have an athlete on the mound to make those plays and we didn't," said Stegemeyer. "The pitching just wasn't there. They gave us the effort, but we couldn't stop them."

Jamie Needham, Tom Senecyn, Kevin Wozniak, Darren Huffman and Chris Wischard followed Black to the mound, and only Wozniak escaped unscathed upon, thanks largely to catcher Joe Wallace picking two runners off in the fifth, including one at second base.

"Kevin pitched all right," said Stegemeyer. "Maybe we should have started him. He was kind of a good luck pitcher for us this year. I figured we might have to use everybody, but I was hoping Black would revert to the way he pitched for us last year and

Tigers, Crusaders meet again

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

What appears to be a classic matchup of great pitching vs. great hitting might not turn out that way.

But that appears to be as good as any way to describe Saturday's first matchup of the Granite City Class AA Sectional at Varsity Field. The Edwardsville Tigers (36-5) face Belleville Altohoff (22-12) at 10 a.m., with the winner advancing to Monday's title game at 4 p.m. The sectional winner will advance to the state tournament in Springfield on June 8.

"We know a lot about them and they know a lot about us," Tiger coach Tom Pile said of the Crusaders. "I don't know what's going to happen. We always have good games."

"It always seems to come down to a tight contest against Edwardsville," said Altohoff coach Al Foppe. "We have had some unreal contests."

The two independents have met four times this season, splitting some high-scoring games. Altohoff won 7-6 after overcoming a 5-0 deficit on April 5; the Tigers came back with a 4-7 win April 27; then the two teams split a double-header on May 19, with the Crusaders taking the opener 11-6 and the Tigers winning the nightcap 9-7.

Tom Price (10-0, 0.90 ERA) will pitch for Edwardsville, while Foppe has not decided on a starter. Price had the Crusaders shut out for five innings in the first game before Altohoff won the game against Edwardsville relief pitching. Price was hit hard in the second game, though.

"We took Tommy out in the first game because it was early in the season and he had thrown enough pitches," said Pile.

"It was unusual for Price to get hit like we did in that second game," Foppe said. "I really respect their pitching staff."

The Tigers have a team ERA of 1.68. They will stick with Price and Lynn alternating as long as they go. They won't need a third starter until the state title game, in which case they could go with senior lefty Dave Jones (7-1, 1.36 ERA).

"I figured we would have good pitching this year," Pile said. "We had 26 wins coming back from last year. And we have hit the ball well ever since going to Busch Stadium game (a 9-1 win over Jerseyville on April 30)."

Despite being known for their pitching, the Tigers have a higher team batting average (.314) than the Crusaders, who are known for their offense. Altohoff is hitting .290 as a team.

"We were in a lull for about two weeks until that last double-header with Edwardsville," said Foppe. "Collectively, we just didn't hit that well. The big thing has been the way our pitching has improved."

Left-handers Darond Stovall and Pat Conreux have been the Crusaders' best. Stovall got the win and Conreux the save in Altohoff's 6-3 win over Belleville East in the Belleville Regional title game on Monday. Stovall, a sophomore, is 6-2 with a 3.37 ERA. Conreux is 3-2 with a 1.79 ERA. Mark Doiron is 5-1 also.

Miners beat East Alton

Tim Wargo brought home the lead run in the ninth inning for the Granite City Miners, allowing them to go on to beat East Alton 5-4 in Monclair League action Wednesday night.

Coach Woody Moad said Wargo had got on base on a fielder's choice, stole second and third and came home when East Alton catcher Brian Kasling threw wild into left field.

The victory brings Granite City to 3-1 in the Metro-East Night League and 6-3 overall. The team plays East Alton again this Sunday.

The Miners scored one in the first, one in the third, two in the seventh and one in ninth. East Alton scored one in the second, two in the fifth, and one in the seventh.

Granite City had a total of seven hits; East Alton had 10. Winning pitcher was Rich Minder, who came in in relief in the eighth inning.

WRYT airing racing reports

WRYT-AM (1080) will provide summertime racing reports from Gateway International Raceway.

The reports, on Sunday afternoons, will include interviews with local drivers involved in everything from dirt track to oval racing. Ray Garner will be the host and will broadcast live from the track, located on Illinois 203 just south of Madison.

The local reports will be supplemented with top races around the country on the Motor Racing Network. Some of the featured races will include the Firecracker 400, Budweiser at the Glen and the Southern 500.

WRYT will air the races and local reports every Sunday through Sept. 24.

Sectional

The Crusaders have a team ERA of 3.27.

Stovall, who also plays center field, leads the offense as well. He's hitting .385 with six homers and 36 RBIs and had a two-run homer off Gary Beggs in the first inning of Monday's game. Conreux is hitting .394 with 39 hits, four homers and 30 RBIs. Tom Egan (.329) had a triple and homer in that game as well.

"Darond is fun to watch," said Foppe. "He's inexperienced, and that shows up from time to time. But his physical ability is just tremendous."

"I can't believe he's just a sophomore," Pile said. "We're concerned with him and Conreux. Conreux is from Edwardsville, and he and Tommy Price are good friends. He hit a home run off Tommy this year, but Tommy also got three hits off him."

Lynn is hitting over .400 for the Tigers, while Greg Morrison, Tim Funkhouser, Nate Mudd and Price are all well over .300.

"We faced just about all of Althoff's pitchers this year," Pile said. "Althoff was struggling when we played them last, but they're doing much better now. You just don't know what will happen until we go out there and play."

at times this year."

What really hurt the Warriors was having to use Mark Began for five innings of relief in Saturday's 12-7 win over Roxana in the regional semifinals. Going into the tournament, Stegemeier was hoping to have Begado (5-3, 2.22 ERA) ready for the Tigers.

"He could have pitched an inning or two if we had been in a close game near the end," Stegemeier said. "Coach (Jack) Parker wanted to bring him in in the second inning, but I didn't want to ruin Mark's arm in a 7-0 game."

And for all the Warriors' problems, saves. Being in it last year had to help her.

"This is all part of being a high school athlete. Collinsville has a very good team and we wish them well. We have a lot of class and I'm sure our girls will bounce back. We played seven sophomores and a freshman this year, so we're going to be all right."

They will be all right. But for seniors Kasproovich, Debeve, Stacey, Lupardus, Lisa Kuit and Johanna Czar, it will be tough to forget. Especially since it happened the same way two years in a row.

NOTES: Each team had 12 shots. The Lady Warriors had nine corner kicks to five for Collinsville. Granite City committed seven fouls while the Lady Kahoks were whistled for 16.

"We played almost a perfect game," said Pile. "This has been one of our most consistent years. Usually we start out well and have a little swoon in the middle of the season. But we have been pretty steady. And we were surprised to hit the ball so well against Granite City (16 hits)."

Edwardsville has won 90 games in the past three years and is aiming for its second straight trip to state. The Tigers lost in the semifinals last year after winning a school-record 31 games.
